New Principal for Saint Joseph the Protector School

Reverend Joseph Brandt and Reverend Joseph Howarth, with the full endorsement and support of the members of Saint Joseph the Protector's Board are pleased to announce that Mrs. Alicia Farren has been appointed principal of Saint Joseph the Protector School for the 2017-2018 school year. Mrs. Farren's professional credentials, her passion for Catholic education, and personal investment in Saint Joseph the Protector School are among the factors that contributed to this decision. Mrs. Farren has worked tirelessly since July 1st preparing for the new school year, while meeting with teachers and parents and providing weekly updates to the StJP School Community. We are confident that Mrs. Farren will navigate this transition with the competence and sensitivity she has demonstrated during her work this summer. We welcome Mrs. Farren with a promise of our prayers and support as she assumes this leadership role.

It is important to note that three additional candidates, who responded to the posting by the Office of Catholic Education, did not submit complete application packets by the required timeline, thus eliminating them from the interview process.

Mrs. Farren will be introduced formally to the StJP School Community at the parent meeting scheduled for August 29th in Saint Luke the Evangelist Church at 7:00 PM.
